

ABSTRACT

A portable polyphonic button-field electronic musical instrument including: at least five finger activated note identifier input buttons located in a primary playing zone; and at least one thumb activated input device located in a secondary playing zone; wherein the arrangement of said primary and secondary zones permits simultaneous operation of a plurality of said at least five finger activated input buttons simultaneous with operation of said at least one thumb activated input device.